things of like character.'

THE clothing we sell is only comparable with the best custom made. Our competition in styles and qualities is only with the merchanttailors. The cheap stuff bought from jobbers and unreliable manufacturers which is flaunted before the eyes of the people, and about which so much shouting is done, cuts no figure on a comparison with the modern patterns in cloth, the late styles and the perfect and complete character of the garments we sell. But because we sell Suits of our kind of clothing as low as $10 and $15 it does not signify that others who have similar prices on suits are in any way competing in quality with us. You want appropriate apparel when you buy, you want something in style, you want something genteelly serviceable. You get just that kind with us always.

Just look at our Tailormade Suits at $10, $12 and $15 and compare them with those sold in this market at same prices.

DUBLIN, May 16.—The Freeman's Journal ex-ults over a trick that was played upon the Conservatives Wednesday while a division was impending in the House of Commons on Mr. Russell's motion to adjourn the debate on the Irish agricultural laborers' bill. It appears that when the Conservative whips went to the telephones to summon a long list of members from the clubs for a hurried divis session of Parnellite members who held tious friends until the division bell rang when, of course, it was too late for the whips to secure the aid of the missing mem bers. The strategem of the Parnellites de feating the Government on the motion to Express (Conservative) says: "If the defeat quickens the activity of the whips and beget a truer harmony of action among the Gov ernment's supporters, it will have proved a blessing in disguise. In the course of his speech he said that his opponents declare that the question of self-government for Ire land would not be dealt with until after the dissolution of the Parliament which will follow the present one. The Dark Continent. LONDON, May 16 .- France is showing more activity in Africa than any other power, not excepting Germany. Besides her conquests in the Soudan and the war with Dahomey France is taking steps to extend and strengthen her interests in Madagascar, where the French have had for many years a precarious foothold. Much discontent exists in that sland over the laws recently promulgated by the native Government in respect to gold mining, which virtually prohibit foreigners from engaging in that industry, and the French are demanding that privileges equal to those of the natives shall be accorded to the French, whose influence is viewed with jealousy by the reigning government. The natives are required to sell all gold they find to the government at a much lower price than foreigners are willing to pay. me Minister of Madagascar exercises almost absolute power, and is pronounced in his hostility to foreign interference. He is also, however, a devoted Christian. EMIN PASHA.

Private letters from Emin Pasha go to show that he has no intention of returning to the equatorial province, and will devote himself to advancing the interests of Germany between Bagamoyo and Tanganyka. The Khedive's government is making investigations as to Emin's management of his province, and the evidence taken goes to prove that Emin was not faithful to the Egyptian Govng his own power and was willing to enter nto an engagement with the Mahdi.

The scenes of the entire morning in the town have never been equaled in the pitful spectacle presented since the great Avondale disaster many years ago, when over one hundred miners were burned to death. A guard of fifty special policemen is necessary to keep the crowd away from the Morgue. At 1 o'clock two more bodies had been brought out and search for others.

The body of Michael Henry, known to be under an immense pile of debris, may not be found for several days. John Allen, the assistant fire boss, who fired the gas, is this morning in great agony. His face and hands were but slightly burned, but he inhaled fatal after-damp. Anthony Froyne and Robert W. Roberts, the men rescued last night, are in a critical condition. It is believed that they will also die. General Supt. Spongers who came into this port last high bring the report that the cargo of the stranded ship is being jettisoned, but have no particulars as to tite cause of the disaster or the probabilities of the vessel going to pieces. A large number of wrecking vessels have left here for the scene of the wreck and will reach the steamer this morning. There is no regular means of communication and the only way of reaching it is by means of a small sailing craft from Lake Worth. The steamer carries both pas-sengers and freight and much anxiety is felt here for the safety of the former. The Alexandria is an old ship, formerly the prop-erty of the Alexandre Line, but sold recently to the Wards, who operate the New York and Havana Steamship Co. Full particulars are

The upper dam, two and a half miles north of the county dam, two and a half miles north of the county road, having a depth of fifteen feet and an area of five square miles, went out with a full head on while the pond below was running over. The dam has been considered unsafe for two years. At about 1 o'clock in the morning Ernest Whittaker, a lad of 16, living half a mile below the dam, saw the first plungs of the water. Without waiting he ran at a breakneck speed down through the village, sounding the cry of alarm. Men left their work and women came into the streets, where the water was soon knee deep. For two long hours there was the greatest anxiety, but strange to say none of the milis collapsed, though nearly all the dams on the stream have disappeared beside the bridges.

Bishop Keener then took the chair and the regular business of the conference was taken After the minutes of yesterday had been read and approved the reports of various committees were called for. The most important of these committees was that of the Committee on Episcopacy. The report recommended the election of two new bishops, one to take the place of Bishop McTeyre and the other to be the bishop of a new see to be created.

IN THE PASTORAL ADDRESS opening the conference it was recom that only one bishop be elected, he to take the place of Bishop McTyere. The committee's report by recommending the election of two bishops opposed the recommendation made by the Bishop in his pastoral address. When the report of the committee was made this morning an attempt was made to amend it by changing the number of bishops to be elected from two to three, but the amendment failed to carry. The report was then adopted, it makes the election of the two new bishops the special order of business for next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

There was a majority and a minority report made by the Committee on Revisais on the question of permitting lay representatives to participate in all the conferences of the church. The majority report recommended against the admission of lay representatives to all the conferences, and the minority report recommended in favor of their admission. of two bishops opposed the recommendation

A memorial was read from Dr. Marshall of Vicksburg, Miss, grecommending the distribution of healthy light church literature.

A memorial was also read from the German Mission Conference requesting that they be not disturbed as a conference.

A series of resolutions signed by several delegates were then read denouncing Romanism and recommending that the Sunday-school teachers be instructed to have such instructions as they deem necessary placed in the catchecism-posting the children on Protestantism and teaching them why they are Protestants and impressing on them the great evils of Romanism.

The presiding bishop recommended that the resolutions be taken up immediately.

Bro. Haynes heartly indorsed the resolution as he thought it high time that the evils of Romanism should be shown the children and that they should be properly instructed in their duties as Protestants and taught why they were Protestants.

On motion of Bro. Tigert the resolutions were referred to the Committee on Sunday.

Schools.

Resolutions were read indorsing the addresses of the fraternal delegates of the British Wesleyan Conference and the M. E. Church North, and hoping for the success of the churches in their warfare on their common enemy, sin. On motion of Bro. Chandler, the resolutions were referred to the Committee on Fraternal Work, as he thought it awkwardly worded.

Delegate McGee of Georgia requested that the resolution concerning worldly amusement the resolution concerning worldly amusement and WORLDLINESS, which had been tabled, be taken from the table, and said he would explain his reason for making the request.

Delegate Candier said he could not lay his hand on the paper just now, but that the resolution had not been tabled. It had passed the conference, but the resolution that he be blaced in the appendix of the church book of discipline was tabled.

Delegate McGee explained that a Georgia newspaper had published a statement that a resolution condemning card-playing, theater-going, etc., had been laid on the table by the General Conference of the M. E. Church South by an overwhelming vole. He asked for the reconsideration of the resolution because an erroneous impression had gone out over the country as to their real action and the opinion had gamed ground that the conference was afraid to place itself on record as opposed to worldliness and boldly face the question as other denominaon record as opposed to worldliness and boldly face the question as other denominations had done.

Delegate Duncan of Tennessee then arose and made a long and heated argument against worldliness. He said that the Naskville American, "a newspaper of the worldly kind" had stated referring to the action of the conference, that the people at home need have no fear of any revolutionary act on the part of the General Conference; "As if," remarked Delegate Duncan, "that by forbidding theater going, dancing, cardplaying, etc., we would be guilty of a revolutionary act." The delegate then went on to condemn worldliness and the preachers who overlooked its prevalence. He thought the preachers should come out boidly against it and show the world they had no fears of facing the question. It was a matter of principle for him and he would, rather fight worldliness though he only received a saiary of $1.60 a year and overlook its existence. Many preachers expressed the wish that they could go to certain congregations where evils a ta salary of $1.000 a year and had said that they would rather fight these evils at a salary of $1.000 a year than receive $4.000 a year and be blind to them. Nevertheless, when they got to these congregations they pocketed the large salaries and failed to see the shortcomings in the members of their congregations. He was opposed to this method.

Dr. Duncan was frequently applauded during his remarks and there were cries of "hear!"

THE RESOLUTION which caused all the discussion was found in the meantime and was then read. It resolved that it was the sense of the conference that great damage had been done to the spirituality of the church by worldliness—theater-going, dancing, card-playing and the like—and that church members who induiged in these things were clearly violating their religion, and that pastors, who overlooked the offense were violating their vows. The resolution also condemned the growing use by the young people of the church of such expressions as "reformed theaters," "legitinate drams,

Dr. Duncan denied that there were any personalities and said he defied Dr. Edwards to indicate any personalities in it. There were no more personalities in that resolution than in any which Dr. Edwards had introduced at the conference.

in any which Dr. Edwards had introduces the conference.

THE DAMMABLE GERMAN.

Dr. Edwards said he had not offered any resolution since the conference began, and that would be his answer to the remarks of Dr. Duncan. If the latter knew how heartily he concurred in the objects of the resolution he would not be opposed to permitting him to speak. He presumed that the expressions "reformed theaters" and "legitimate drama" referred to had been used by certain preachers in the pulpit, as these were growing expressions in the church. Slight offenses like plano playing, etc., when done privately by his congregation and not in public, he always failed to see, but he was strongly opposed to public promiscuous dancing. He was down on round dances and especially the damnable german, which should not be permitted to be danced any where. He knew of nothing imore demoralizing, and no action which could be taken by the conference against it would be too strong. No german clubs should be permitted to exist in any congregation. One young man in his congregation who belonged to a german club said he would not give it up. The speaker informed him that he would expel him from the church if he refused to do so. The young man said he would announce from the pulpit that such was not the case, but that he was expelled for refusing to obey his pastor when ordered to resign from a German club. Dancing, theater-going and the like were only indiscretions and people could not be expelled for met church for indulging in them, but when their pastors advised them that they should give them up and they refused to do so, then they could be expelled.

The resolution was finally referred to the Committee on Revisals for the purpose of having it more concisely worded.

Bro. Lovejoy of Georgia offered an amendment which created considerable discussion. It was that the term of presiding elder to eight years. Ero. Lovejoy a mendment was lost and the committee's report was adopted.

At the suggestion of Bro. Tigert a motion was made to reconsider the vote by which the resolution on worldiness was referred to the Committee on Revisals. Mr. Tigert stated that the Committee on Revisals had more work than they could attend to.

Delegate Duncan opposed the motion. He said the conference was dodging the issue on the question of worldiness. The original resolution had been carefully prepared with the express purpose of going in the appendix of the book of discipline. It had first been referred to the Committee on Revisals, and now it was proposed to refer it to a committee of fiteen. Where would the resolution end if kept traveling? He moved that the resolution as originally offered be placed in the appendix. The motion to reconsider the vote by which the resolution was referred to the Committee on Revisals was declared to be in order. A vote was taken on it and the motion to reconsider was carried.

Delegate Tigert then offered a resolution that the chair appoint a committee of fifteen, to be known as the Committee of fifteen, to be known as the Committee of fifteen, to be known as the Committee on the Spiritual State of the Church, and that they draw up a resolution on worldliness, to be inserted in the appendix of the Church Book of Discipline.

Delegates Duncan and Haynes opposed the resolution. The latter made a point of order that the resolution raised an entirely new matter. The point of order was sustained by matter. The point of order was sustained by the chair.

Dr. Whitehead of Virginia appealed from the ruling of the chair. The conference sus-tained the chair.

A motion was made to refer the matter back

A motion was made to refor the matter back to the Committee on Revisals and was lost by a vote of 94 to 112.

Dr. Tigert again offered his resolution for the appointment by the chair of a committee of fifteen, to be known as the Committee on the Spiritual State of the Church, to draft a resolution on worldliness, to be inserted in the appendix of the hook of discipline.

The motion carried.

Dr. Duncan then made a hard fight to have his resolution on worldliness voted upon by the conference.

This morning she was up in the Second District Police Court charged with being drunk on the street. Her dress was muddy and torn, her gray hair hung down over her eyes and Ellen wore a decidedly dejected appearance. She was in a very inebriated condition and her case was continued for that reason.

"Wait till I ketch you outside," she said viciously, as she snock her fist at first the Judge and then Assistant City Attorney Adams. "You'll arrest a decent woman an' keep her in jail, will yer; well, you wait."

She made a lunge for a chair, but Marshal Conradus stopped her. She was taken to the Third District Police Station for safe keeping until she should recover from the effects of the liquor she had imbibed and while being taken through the door she spied a policeman. Marshal McCormick had her by the arm but she broke away and selzed a water bucket to throw at the officer who had on the offending brass buttons. Marshal Conradus tried to stop her from throwing the bucket and in consequence received half a pail of water over his head.

After a struggle the woman was locked up.

Before he realized his danger Keuhn was selzed by the neck and held as if in a vise. Without entirely losing his self-possession, Kouhn grabbed his assailant by the throat and, half choked, the two struggled about in their narrow confines. Kuchn was almost fainting from suffocation, when his opponent's hold began to relax. As if by mutual consent both dropped their hands. Quick as a flash, however, the unknown struck Kuchn a fearful blow between the eyes knocking him backwards against a frail partition. The support gave away and the men went down.

The robber again obtained his strangle hold and choked his prostrate victim until he bled at the mouth and nose. Then he tore off Keuhn's gold watch and chain 'end was in the act of unscrewing a dlamond pin from his scarf when he heard a noise on the street below and fied. Keuhn lay half fainting for fully half ar hour and then managed to get down to the street. A pedestrian called a physician and the injured man was attended to. He had caught a good glimpse of his assailant's face, however, and has been on the watch ever since. About 8:30 o'clock yesterday evening he called Sergt. Cummins and Officer Wilson and pointed out to them a hanger-on about the theater who was then standing at the door. The officers arrested the suspect, who gave the name of William Smith. The prisoner made a criminating remark when taken into the private office of the theater. As soon as he faced Keuhn, and before he had been told the charge against him, he blurted out:

"Why, you don't think I took your watch and chain, do you?"

This question, taken into consideration with the identification made by Keuhn, and the fact that the account of the robbery had not been made public, was sufficient to cause Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dierkes to issue a warrant this morning charging Smith with robbery in the first degree. Keuhn appears to be badly hurt internally. To-day he bled considerably at the mouth and feels much pain.

The Silver Bill was then taken up and Mr. Sherman offered a substitute for the amendment heretofore offered by him (as to covering into the treasury the funds now held for the redemption of National Bank notes). Mr. Sherman stated that the substitute was to the same effect but in better form, having been prepared in the Treasury Department.

AMONG THE BROKERS.

A Fair Market-Stocks Sold and Prices Ob-. tained To-Day. Trading was not particularly active on the Mining Exchange this morning, but prices were strong, and had an upward tendency.

Elizabeth was more active than it has been nounced a noile prosequi in the case of the for several days, and the price advanced state against Frank Lewis when the action sharply. The market opened at $2.20 bid, and before the brokers on the curb dispersed 100 shares were sold at $2.20, and an offer of 400 shares at $2.25 was accepted. Bidding fell to $2.22\foxup, but no stock was offered below $2.27\foxup, and $2.20 was bid for large blocks.

Little Albert continued to advance, the stock being in the hands of a few brokers. Bidding rose to 50, and the lowest offers were 55, but no sales were made.

Pine Grove in the face of heavy selling or-ders dropped in price. The market opened at 3, and 500 shares changed hands, More was offered at this quotation, but no one was will-ing to pay the price, and the stock dropped to 2½. At that figure 1,000 shares were sold, and a further drop to 2 took place, 500 shares being disposed of at that quotation.

Mickey Breen was in good demand and 85 was freely bid, 200 shares bringing that figure and more being wanted. The closing quotation was 85 bid, 87½ asked.

Yuma Copper showed no signs of retrogression, 200 shares selling at 62½ and that price being freely bid.

Samoa was 11 asked, 10 bid; 500 Aztec sold at 10; Skyrocket was 35 bid; 100 Keystone sold at 2½; Puzzle was 3 bid.

The following quotations were made on call this morning: BID. ASK.

the boodle for election purposes. Canadian newspapers, for political purposes or from fear of consequences, omit from their reports the names of the ministers alleged by Murphy to have shared the boodle, but-I know from lawyers and others who have seen the declarations, of which only garbled copies are printed here, that Hon. T. McGreevy has receipts from Sir A. P. Caron, Minister of Militia; Mr. Landry, Honorary Aide-de-Camp to the Governor General, and many others for parts of the $250,000 alleged by Murphy to have been paid him. Sir Hector Langevin, whose name was mentioned, touched none of it. Sir John's Government is moving heaven and earth to stop the inquiry in Parliament and will doubtless succeed, as the House will be prorogued in a tew days and the opposition are atraid to proceed without complete copies of Murphy's declarations or official charges against the statesmen mentioned in the Herald as implicated in the scandal. Everything points to large sums beling paid to keep back these names so that a second scandal. Bigger than the first, has grown out of it. The importance of this struggle may be judged from the fact that if the accusations against the Government can be proved Sir John Macdonald would be compelled to resign, as in the case of the Pacific Railroad scandal in 1878. Sir Hector Langevin is trying to find out how the information respecting tenders for which the $250,000 was paid leaked out of his department and got into the possession of his political "friend" McGreevy. The latter is sued for $10,000 for sitting in Parliament end got into the pendence of Parliament act.

An Explanation of the Trouble in the Well-

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 16.—The difference between the wing of the Ancient Order of Hibernians whose convention is in session here and the wing whose convention is mee ing in New York were a fruitful topic of dis-cussion in convention circles yesterday. National Delegate Wilhere, regarding the convention of the Board of Erin A. O. H., said: "The tion of the Board of Erin A. O. H., said: "The convention does not represent, I understand, more than a few thousand men—say 5,000 or more. Here in Connecticut there are not over 500 members of that branch. Some six years a few men seceeded and ast up this new organization, which they subsequently dubbed the Board of Erin A. O. H. It pretended to work under authority from across the twater given by some seceding board or other, which has been set up by a few men without the alightest constitutional authority. The order with which I am connected and which is known as the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America, gets no authority from any such source, although we are in official connection and affiliation with the legal and constitutional Board of Erin, which is the representative body of the A. O. H in Great Britain and Ireland. We believe in the home rule principle and in managing the affairs of our organization on this side of the water as may seem best for us. The principle of home rule, which we assert for ourselves, we likewise concede to our brethren on the other side of the water, who manage their rairs of our organization on this side of the water as may seem best for us. The principle of home rule, which we assert for ourselves, we likewise concede to our bettiren on the other side of the water, who manage their own affairs as we do—for the best interests of our common brotherhood."

'Is there any foundation for a rumor that the National Directory of the A. O. H., consisting of five gentlemen, have gone to New York to arrange with the convention there the healing of the breach and future consolidation?"

'There is no truth in the report. We appointed a committee last May to arrange with a similar committee appointed by the seceding wing, a basis for the arbitration of their alleged grievances. Archishop Corrigan, to whom the matter was referred, named the Right Rev. Mgr. John M. Farley of New York as arbitrator. Notwithstanding the that the fact committee of the seceding wing has been notified repeatedly of Mgr. Farley's appointment and acceptance of the position of arbitrator, they have failed to signify to them either their acceptance or rejection of himself as the appointed arbitrator.''

In corroboration of this Mr. Wilhere produced a letter to himself from Mgr. Farley, dated the Sth inst., in which the writer states that he has received no communication from the other party to the controversy. He made it a condition that both parties should agree and abide by his decision and furnish as summary of the questions at issue. Mr. Wilhere, representing his committee, compiled with this condition ten months ago, but the other side are still silent. Samuel Klipatrick, a prominent merchant of Greenock, Scotland, who is here as a delegate from the Supreme Council of the A. O. H: in Great Britain and Ireland, said:

'The Rev. Father O'Shaughnessy of Girvan was the delegate selected to come, but as the last moment unexpected difficulties came in his way and it fell to my lot to come.'

'Are the dissensions in your order serious?'

'Not at all. There was some disunion among us, but thanks to Father O'Shaughnes

"Not at all. There was some disunton among us, but thanks to Father O'Shaughnessy, at home, that is fast disappearing. The main body in America and the old country looks to him for guidance, which he gives with consummate prudence and intelligence. Scarcely a week passes but some of the seceders on both sides of the Atlantia write him for advice and information concerning the merits of the unfortunate dispute. It is only a question of time when all that is worth having will come back to the bosom of the true and legitimate A. O. H. I cannot understand how this small minority of seceders does not see it to be for its true interest to unite with the main body that has a regular constitution and rules in the old country as well as here, where the Supreme Council is composed of men of standing and influence, and presided over by one of the foremost Irish priests in Scotland, and a man with world-wide reputation. We want no triumph over the seceders. We want them to bury the past and come and take their places in the ranks and share all our privileges and benefits as before the secession."

The Western Association of Gas Engineers meets at the Lindell Hotel next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and the convention will last for three days. It is likely that the first day's proceedings will be simost entirely of a routine character, as the convention will have to be got into working shape and various matters attended to. The committee having the matter in charge have made elaborate preparations for the entertainment of the delegates during their stay here. Thursday evening they will be taken on a stamboat excursion on the river, at which there will be music, dancing, fireworks and other features, and on Friday they will be banqueted at the Jockey Club house at the Fair Grounds. At this banquet there will probably be 200 plates. A GENUINE LOVE MATCH.

THE WEDDING OF MR. DAMEOSCH AND MISS BLAINE TO-MORROW AFTERNOON.

The Story of Their Engagement and Court-ship—Senator and Mrs. Hale as Match-makers—The Coaching Trip With the Carnegies in Scotland—Something About the Bride and Her Fiance.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16.—Ever since the beginning of the present Administration—not togo back of that time—the tongue of gossip has been busy concerning the public and private affairs of the Biaine household. First, when it was learned that Mr. Blaine had taken the old house in which Mr. Blaine had taken the old house in which Secretary Seward used to live and in which he was so nearly undered on the night that Lincoln was shot, the prophets and the sons and daughters of prophets declared that this was only the first theatric act of what was going to be highly dramatic administration of the State Department. Then as time failed to develop any very startling demonstrations of the jingo sort, the Secretary's health became the subject of general conversation, and it was agreed that he could not survive the first year of the administration. When the terrible loss of a son and a daughter fell upon the family shere there was no lack of success sympathy, but gossip, which must go on, turned from the household to the house itself and called up its history to prove that it is the abode of bad luck. There are plenty of people in Washington who will tell you that there is not a superstitute hair in their heads and in the same breath will say that they would not live in the old Seward house it fany could have it rent free—not because there is any physical defect in it, but because it is an unlucky house.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Margaret Blaine to William Waiter Damrosch gave to the gossips new and pro-gagement created great excitement among the friends of Mr. Damrosch, but a circumstance which followed it is said to have created even greater excitement. One evening he appeared among his companions almost unrecognizable by reason of the lossiot those long, inxuriant locks which he had for so many years thrown back in such picturesque confusion. The change, it was said, was due to a wish expressed by his flances, toward whom he shows in all things that gladsome deference which marks the genuine lover. It would be fulsome flattery to say that Miss Blaine is a beautiful young woman, but it may with justice be said that her face bears those strong characteristics which, as in the case of both her fatner and mother, mark a good intellect. The portrait accompanying this sketch is made from a photograph taken some time luck. There are plenty of people in Wash ington who will tell you that there is not a subject to the construction and in their heads and in the same breath will say that they would not live in the old Seward house if they could have it rent free—not because there is any physical defect in it, but because it is an unlucky house.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Margaret Biaine to William Walter Damrosch gave to the gossips s new and profoundly interesting subject, and straightway they chose sides and went into a free-for-ali discussion of its merits. I believe they have not yet determined to their entire satisfaction whether it is a love match. It therefore will delight me a few minutes later to lay before them some facts which may throw light on them some facts which may throw light on this important question.

THE ENGAGEMENT.

As soon as the engagement was made known it became necessary for the gossips to learn as soon as possible what kind of a wadding it was going to be. Some said the ceremony would be performed in the old, historic St. Mathew Catholic Church. Others said It would be a Frotestant ceremony. All agreed, however, that it would be a very ostentations affair. Not even the double bereavement of the Secretary's family could still this tongue of gossip. It was stoutly maintained that, while it was going to be in "the worst kind of taste," yet, of course, it was going to be a grand public wedding.

As it has been throughout, pretty nearly everything that the gossips have said about the Blaines since the beginning of this Administration has turned out to be untrue, with the exception of the assertion that the house is unluwly, which has not turned out at all, and is not likely to.

On another point—a point, too, very dear to the gossips— they are in error. Miss Blaine and Mr. Damrosch did not have their first meeting on the famous Carnegle coaching trip. They niet almost a year before that at a dinner given by Mr. Carnegle at Kil garston, in Scotland, where he had leased the magnificent estate for that season. The seed of acquaintsuce which was sowed at that time burst into fructification under the morning sun of Mr. Carnegle's watchfulness during the coaching trip through Sectiand in the next year, for it was by his arrangement that these young people were seated side by side through the moonilt gardens, where every bush could tell a tale of love, and every stone a tradition of romantic interest, the lovers slyly whispered the sweet old story of the young heart's desire.

The MATCHMAKERS.

The understanding between the two young people was not made known to the company by any word of theirs, but there were keen, experienced eyes upon them and the hoat with consummate skill brough the moosity side for the return trip.

Last summer while Secre

der all sorts of propitious circumstances and at last placed them side by side for the return trip.

Last summer while Secretary Blaine's family was at Bar Harbor, before even the first faint rumor of Miss Blaine's engagement had been whispered, she and Mr. Damrosch were among other guests of Senstor and Mrs. Hale at their residence in Elisworth, Me. With that keen perception which a woman brings to bear upon hearts which Master Cupid has been shooting at, Mrs. Hale made a discovery, and on the occasion of the first dinner arranged that the lovers should be together. On the following day Mr. Damrosch sought his hostess and complimenting her upon the success of the previous evening's entertainment, began to dilate upon his own enjoyment of the occasion which had given to him so agreeable a partner as Miss Blaine, whereupon Mrs. Hale laughed heartly, and in response to his inquiry as to how she had guessed his little secret, said that his choice of partners was so very apparent it would have been downright cruelty to arrange the grouping otherwise. After that it was of course understood by the lovers that they were to be seated together on all occasions. It was, therefore, to Senator and Mrs. Hale that their attachment for each other was first communicated and that their engagement was first communicated and that their engagement was first announced.

The Engagement and were and the en-which she had already reached a remarkable degree of proficiency. Indeed, she is regarded by her frieuds not so much as a woman of mere accomplishments as of profound learning. She has no talent whatever for music, a fact which has given rise to much speculation on the part of the gossips as to why she and Mr. Damrosch should be drawn toward each other. But gossips are likely to be superficial in their observations.

speculation on the part of the gossips as to why she and Mr. Damrosch should be drawn toward each other. But gossips are likely to be superficial in their observations.

A VERY INTERESTING WOMAN.

Miss Blaine is, to the few whom she classes as her intimate friends, a very interesting woman, her speech and actions betraying at times a depth of feeling unguessed by those who judge her by her cold, austere outward manner. It has been noted, however, even by those superficial judges that recently she has undergone a marked change of manner. It is thought that the kindred flame of love, added to the heartaches resultant from the family's recent bereavements, has stirred the latent tenderness of her nature, which heretofore has been demonstrated only to her mother, to whom she has always expressed in every act and word the very deepest devotion. These two have been inseparable companions, the mother always consulting the daughter on matters of moment, and in the later years leaning heavily upon her judgment. Those who are intimate with the family say that the daughter is to the mother what Walker Blaine was to the father.

As the time for the wedding approached the Biaine family had a considerable struggle with the question as to whether it should be a quiet affair or a society event. Mr. and Mrs. Blaine, sore at heart from recent losses, were favorable to a strictly private wedding, but Mr. Damrosch desired that the occasion of his great joy should be a memorable one. Some yielding on both sides resulting in the form of ceremony which the readers of the country now know was settled upon. It was intended at first that only the President and Mrs. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie, Mr. and Mrs. McKee, the Cabinet families, a few personal friends of the German hinister, and Secretary Blaine deemed it unwise to lavies him without extending the invitation to the eatire diplomatic corps. This opened the door and it was with difficulty that it was clessed again. And before it was closed a considerable concourse of guests had

ULCERS and SORES SSS

Both Ankles Crushed.

In a railroad smash up in 1876, I had both ankles badly crushed. Soon after Blood Poison set in and both legs, from my knees down, were covered with ulcer-ated sores that refused all efforts to heal. I was virtually belpless for ten years, being bedridden most of the time. During all the time I was attended by the best physicians in this section of the State, and must have taken a cart-load of medicine, without receiving any relief or being benefited in any way. In 1887 I was induced to try Swift's Specific (S. S. S.). I commenced to improve from the first dose, and continued to get better, until to-day l am as sound and well as any man in the universe. This was two years ago, since which I bave had no return of sores or any pain in the legs. From my experience I conscientiously believe that Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) has no equal as a blood purifier, and I cheerfully recommend it to any one suffering from any disease of the blood.

HE Columbia College with a great deal of interest yesterday, says the New York Sun, the news which has recently become current that the athletic grounds project and that the college may have no athletic grounds ment that the project is to be abandoned or that the cost will be far beyond what was at first expected. The sum originally supposed sufficient to cover the entire of laying out the grounds was $7,500, but the Alumni Association determined to raise $25,000, so anto be certain of enough. About $20,000 was raised before the lat of March, and this made the athletic grounds an assured fact. The statements in an evening paper on Monday regarding the critical finanial condition and the probable abandonment

Prof. Goodwin further said that the exact yet all in, but will be submitted this week, and actual work on the grounds will begin as quickly as possible. The project is not likely to fail through the lack of money or activity, when many of the most prominent alumni of the college have subscribed liberally to the thietic fund. President Low himself heading the list with $1,000 and afterward subscribing $500 more. The names of the committee in charge of the laying out of the grounds are ufficient to dispel any fears that the idea will not be carried through to a successful end. The Broeklyn Handicap.

The prize list is rapidly filling up and is a very attractive one. The management have resonance the property at the prize list is a property at the prize list is repeated to suit the same and Wednesday evening's rain had made the Gravesend track very heavy, but the mud seemed to suit the Beverwyck stables' 4-year-old, for he ran away from his field and had all the favorites hopelessly beaten. The crowd was very large, nearly twenty thousand persons being present and the excitement was almost unprecedented. Los Angeles was a strong favorite at 8 to 5, Badge came next at 13 to 5, Dixon at 4 to 1, while Castaway was quoted at 10 to 1. There was a good start at the third attempt, and at the end of the first quarter Castaway was a length in the lead. At the end of the second quarter he had doubled his lead, with Eric second. The mile was covered in 1-43, and when Castaway turned into the straight for home he had a good four lengths advantage. He was ridden easily, but gradually increased his advantage and carried off the $10,000 with six lengths to spare. Badge overhaulded Eric at the furlong pole and came in second, Eric being third, and the others straggling away four, eight and even twelve lengths in the rear.

The winner is a plain-looking bay coit by Outcast, out of Lucy Lisle, 15.3 hands high. He has always been a fair performer in sloppy going, but a mile and a quarter was always considered beyond the limits of his powers. He ran this spring at the New Jersey tracks with varying success, but yesterday's time, 2:10, proclaims him an excellent horse. His stable knew his work better than the public, but the secret was well kept. Johnny Campbell won $27,000 on him, Denoyle $17,000, and E. A., Buck at least $10,000.

The other results were as follows:
First race, sweepstakes, with $1,000 added, five furlongs—Civil Service, first; Blue Rock, second; Fordham, third. Time, 1:024.

Second race, one and one-sixteenth of an mile—Eon, first; Sluzgard, second; Hadstone, third. No time taken.

The advance sale of tickets is large and the attendance promises to be even greater than instyear. Special prizes have been put up for the person selling the most tickets. Harry Gordon will again give several of his unique exhibitions of fancy and trick-riding, which were such a big feature of the last fall meeting. Tickets are on sele at all the cycling agencies and can also be had of the members of the Association. Entries close positively to-morrow at 6 p. m. Intending participants should not fail to note this. Entry blanks can be obtained of Harold Child, Secretary, 118 Olive street. Most of the prizes are on exhibition at the Secretary's office. In connection with the races there will be a parade of wheelmen to start from Fourteenth and Locust streets, at 1:30 p. m., sharp, in which every rider in the city is invited to take part.

Apropos of this match between the white and colored champions, a sporting man who has resided in Boston for many years, but who is now domiciled in this city, received a letter from a friend of Sullivan's, in which the latter states that the sporting men of San Francisco would be foolish to expect to see Sullivan and Jackson meet. THE Democracy of St. Louis now has chance to redeem itself.

THE last days of the trip-to-Europe contest are great days for the schoolmarms.

If the voters of St. Louis show half the zeal of the friends of the teachers, next Tuesday's election will be a "corker."

We are ready to guarantee that next Sunday's SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH Will lead the procession in circulation and we expect it to lead also in advertising.

THE attention of MCKINLEY and his protection pals is called to the refusal of the Republicans of RANDALL's district to oppose a tariff-reform Democrat.

CARLISLE is slowly but steadily gaining on his opponents in the Kentucky Senatorial race. His nomination by the Democratic caucus may reasonably be expected to-night. THE severe lesson on the folly of staying away from the polls afforded by the School Board situation should have a good effect on the voters for next Tuesday's special election.

NO REPUBLICAN of St. Louis need feel under any obligation to indorse the action of the committee caucus in nominating JOYCE for the Presidency of the Board of Public Improvements.

THE Republican Central Committee has nominated a civil engineer for President of the B. P. I., whose experience, however, has been confined chiefly to the study of civil government as expounded in ward meetings.

THE vote cast at the forthcoming municipal election will fall far short of the vote cast at the great school-teachers' election held by the Post-Dispatch, but then the voters in the municipal election have not a list of 700 good-looking and popular candidates to vote for.

EVERY want advertiser in the next issue of the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH will get the largest possible circulation for his advertisement and the most beautiful picture ever given away by a St. Louis paper. This is the last chance to obtain one of the Post-DISPATCH pictures, as the series closes with this offer.

THE Republicans of Randall's Philadelphia district have decided not to nominate in opposition to RICHARD VAUX, the Democratic candidate who stands on a straight tariff reform platform. And this walkover is given a tariff-reform Democratin a district represented for years by the most prominent protection Democratin the country. Some wonderful changes are taking place in the home of the tariff barons.

Public opinion in every State except

Louisiana is overwhelmingly on the side

Louisiana is overwhelmingly on the side of the Governor of that State in his fight against the rechartering of the lottery. If he is defeated his defeat will be univer- the greater it gets.

In nominating John G. JOYCE as the Republican candidate for President of the Board of Public Improvements the Republican machine did not give a semblance of popularity to its choice. On the contrary, every possibility of the wishes of the voters of the party influencing the nomination for one of the most important offices within the gift of the people of St. Louis was carefully eliminated. The selection was made wholly by the City Central Committee in executive session, with a sergeant-atarms standing guard at the door. It was a star-chamber nomination, made by a set of politicians, some of whom have extremely unsavory reputations, and whose purposes never reach higher than the accomplishment of their own political schemes and the distribution of the spoils. The proceeding was an insult to the Republican party of this city.

The candidate forced by the committee on the Republican party presents no claims for the high office he seeks which are worthy to be set off against the manner of his nomination. His fitness for the office has not been proved either as a private citizen or as an official, and he was overwhelmingly rejected by the people when he sought the same office on the Filley ticket put forward in opposition to the regular Republican ticket some years ago and representing the most corrupt machine elements in the party. The ame elements are behind him now.

The Democratic Convention to be held to-morrow presents an excellent opportunity to the local Democratic party to win popular favor by gratifying the demand of citizens for a clean, honest, capable civil engineer to take the place of Col. FLAD. The Democratic Committee has, at least, respected the rights of voters by calling a convention. The city may be saved from the possibility of

These men stand on the platform of contemptuous disregard for official decencies which they have made for themselves.

ure—The New Wool an Improvement
Over the Old.

Wool has commenced to arrive here in the last week or so in larger quantities than during the preceding weeks, but the cold, rainy, unseasonable spring has greatly retarded shearing all over the country, and the wool season has not yet really opened. Ordinarily it is pretty well started at this time of year, but this season the sheep raisers are naturally opposed to clipping their herds until the weather moderates. St. Louis is the earliest large wool market in the country, and when the wool season opens up it is felt here quicker than at any other point. Although the season is backward a very heavy clip is anticipated this year, and that this market will get a large part of it seems an assured fact. Wool growers are becoming acquainted with the advantages of this city as a point to market their wool and are turning their attentions this way. Every year witnesses an increase in the receipts, and, unless all signs fail, the amount of wool handled here the coming year in the history of this market. Wool has commenced coming this way, and there is not enough arriving to supply the wants of near-by factories. Buyers will an object to look after them. As yet prices for such wools are only noulial with the majority of Western and Southwestern growers it is no longer a question of where to ship to, but whether to sell at home or ship to St. Louis, and we are relad to know that they have found from actual experience that it pays to ship and get the benefit of competition in a market where, in addition to the large local houses without, however, any hardening in wore local in last week's report still continues without, however, any hardening in wore local in last week's report still continues without, however, any hardening in wore local in last week's report still continues without, however, any hardening in wore local in last week's report still continues without, however, any hardening in wore local in last week's report still continues without however, and sill it requi year in the history of this market. Wool has commenced coming this way, and there is no telling where it will stop. The city is bound to bocome the rival of Boston in this line of trade. It has every advantage in its favor, and all it requires is that the wool growers should be made acqualinted with the fact. They are learning the value of the market and its future is established beyond question. The cash system with its quick returns, low commissions and charges in vouce here are certain to swing a large part of the wool trade of the country to St. Louis. Wool growers like everybody else are bound to go where they can do best.

M. A. E. HART

of A. E. Hart & Co. gave an example of the rapidity with which sales are made here. "The other day," he remarked, "I received 5,000 pounds of wool and while unloading it from the wagon I opened a sack at the request of a buyer who came along and he said he would take the whole lot and I sold it to him right there before the wool had been placed in my store at all. The shipper received his money immediately. That is a specimen of sales which are common here, but which it would be impossible to make at any other market in the world. In other markets they would want the wool all assorted out and would examine every particle of it before making the purchase. If a shipper advises a commission man here to sell his wool on arrival, the sale can be made within twenty-four hours, the wool weighed and returns made. That is the way business is done our hours, the woel weighed and returns made. That is the way business is done

"Why can sales be made here so quickly?"
"Hart was asked.
"Because," he replied, "the woolen dealcity may be saved from the possibility of loss and loot and the party may be strengthened by a wise selection to morrow.

The trip-to-Europe contest of the lady teachers sweeps along on an increasing tidal wave of popular favor. The last two vote Sundays which remain will be the culmination of the rivalry and the magnificent efforts of the friends of the candidates. The voting of next week will count heavily in the final summing up, and as the copies of the Sunday Post-Disparch next Sundays have all been exhausted, the desirability of making sure of securing copies of the Sunday Post-Disparch next Sunday is manifest. While no teacher on the list will be without pleasant reward, the friends of each will naturally strain every nerve to secure the trip to Europe.

PRESIDENT HARRISON is credited with giving currency to a rumored threat that if he should appoint ex-Judge McClures to the bench in the Eastern Judical District of Arkansas the latter will be assassinated. "The shearing in some sections has begun," he remarked, "and some Utah wools which have arrived in this market look very fairly. The wool is in better condition than the previous clip."

bill, which has already passed and only awaits the President's signature, has already had its effect, as the worsted goods manufacturers are now looking around lively and picking up wool by the lot. Manufacturers who were holding out are now laying in a stock ahead instead of buying from hand to mouth as they were doing. This has stimulated the market and wools are selling freely. We look in general for a good, healthy market this year. The imports of manufactured goods will not be so large and the growers will be benefited. Even if the price is no higher wools will sell more freely the growers will be benefited. Even if the price is no higher wools will sell more freely and shippers will save insurance, storage and other charges with which they are taxed when the market is dull and their wools have to be held for some time. The speculators have all been changed from bears to buils and a great many Western manufacturers have come into this market in search of wool. Some of these manufacturers have made propositions to buy certain grades ahead, but, of course, we will not sell anything to them except what is now in the stores, and for this

Some of these manufacturers have made propositions to buy certain grades ahead, but, of course, we will not sell anything to them except what is now in the stores, and for this stock they must pay full value."

"Will prices go higher?"

"I think woois will do better, but we never hold the article except when instructed to do so. Otherwise, we sell as soon as we can find a customer at the ruling market price. Iwo weeks ago wools of certain grades were offered manufacturers at prices which they would not pay. Now they are ready to take all wool offered them at those prices. They cannot get it, however, for the same price. In several instances lately wool has brought from 12 cent to 2 cents more than for what it sold a month ago."

"What caused the late depression in wool?"

"That the great depression was not caused by the West, as this section had practically sold out early in the season and the small amount of wool left in it could easily have been disposed of to the Northern and Western manufacturers who look to the markets of the West for their supply. The dealers of the seaboard towns, however, rushed around to consumers with the selfish motive of trying to depress the market. They had some very good reasons for their actions, too, as the manufacturers did not have very fattering sales of heavy goods. Then a great deal of imported wools were brought into the country under one pretext or another at less than their real value. Despite the fact that these imported wools had been permitted to enter the country in that manner, there would not have been such depression in prices as there was had not the Eastern dealers and speculators sought to depress the market by selling all the old wools on hand so as to keep down prices to enable them to buy in the large new cilp at a very low oost and afterward held it for a heavy advance."

of the Hogan Commission Co. sated that the cold, rainy weather had greatly retarded shearing, "but," he remarked, "wool has come in generally in small lots, but there is much more arriving now than there was a few weeks ago. Of course the wool growers do not care to shear their sheep in this kind of weather, as it is extremely dangerous to the animals. As soom as the warm weather sets in and there is some assurance that it has come to stay shearing will be begun in earnest and the receipts of wool will take a sudden bound upward. The indications are that the receipts will be particularly heavy at St. Louls and we all look for by far the largest year we have yyet had. The nerethants here are determined to get the woolcoming this way whether they make anything themselves or not. Charges

LEARNING TO READ.

A New System of Tuition Under Which Children Learn to Read Rapidly. An attempt is being made to introduce into the St. Louis public schools a new system of teaching young children to read. The plan as been explained by Sunt. Long to several are being made in different schools. ebecca S. Pollard of Fort Madison, Io., and was first introduced about five years ago into the Des Moines schools, and then through the public schools of Iowa, Nebraska and parts of kansas, Minnesota and now into Missouri. It is meeting with great success, and has been received with favor thus far in St. Louis, and nore especially so in East St. Louis. It is explained and taught in the public schools in this city by Miss May Swanson of Muscatine, Io., who yesterday gave the following explanation of the nethod. This new system is the called the Pollard synthetic method and the basis is phonic. In the beginning when the teacher takes a class of little ones to teach them to read they are prepared for the method by being taught to repeat all of the different the Pollard synthetic method and the basis is phonic. In the beginning when the teacher takes a class of little ones to teach them to read they are prepared for the method by being taught to repeat all of the different sounds in nature with which children are familiar before they are two years old. As a little baby beginning to lisp words will say "baa" when it sees a lamb and tries to show that he is thinking of a lamb, so a child learning his letters by this new system is taught to associate every letter with SOME SOUNE IN NATURE.

The sounds are learned by stories about natural sounds, as if nature was put into type. For instance, the letter A is like the lamb or the letter B is associated with the buzzing of a bee, the letter G with the croaking of a frog is a pond, and so on.

The children are interested in the beginning and learning thein letters and to read is not such a dry, drudging task as it is under the old plan. They learn by this system before they know that they are being taught to read. The laws governing the changes of sound are taught through little songs, rhymes and verses. Instead of taking one word as in learning to spell they take the letters that they know the sound pf and build words around them. Then they are taught words by families just as fleey are taught the different animals belonging to the head family with the same sound are taught to gether, then all the different families having the vowel sound. After building up a family of words around a certain vowel sound similar families are built around other vowels. The first lessons are called the developing lessons.

Of course it is easy for little officient to as-to mark the sounds or letters before it knows the name of the words. In the old system it could read before it knew the sounds of the letters intelligently. Thus by the new system the lotters intelligently. Thus by the new system the sye, the voice, the ear, the hand and mind are systematically trained at the same time. The children thus trained in each faculty are able to begin with simple words and to go to onger words as easily as they conquered the etter and words of one syllable.

AN ANGRY MAN'S FOLLY. He Quarrels With and Brutally Assaults Two Lady Relatives.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparce. JACKSON, Tenn., May 16 .- Late yesterday afternoon J. W. Tyson, a prominent citizen, had a difficulty with two ladies, Mrs. Hogsett and her sister, Miss McCowatt, during which he lost his temper and struck Mrs. Hogsett on the cheek with a brickbat, inflicting painful wound. He also struck Miss McCow att with his fist, knocking her down. It seems that Mrs. Hogsett, a sister of Tyson's first wife, had custody of his infant son until 2 years old, when Tyson remarried and demanded possession of his ohlid, but Mrs. Hogsett refused to give the little one ars. Hogsett refused to give the little one up to him and Tyson only secured it through habeas corpus proceedings. It was understood at the time that the child should visit its aunt. The ladies were passing Tyson's house yesterday afternoon and called the child while he was playing in the yard. This angered Tyson and a quarrei ensued with the result stated. Tyson was arrested but released on bail,

After a light rain yesterday afternoon the weather turned bitterly cold. Last night the thermometer registered below freezing point, and this morning there was a thin seum of ice over the "Walnut," something that has not happened for years at this season. Strawberries, grapes and berries of all kinds are completely destroyed and garden vegetables frozen to the ground. A heavy rain is very badly needed.

Indersing a Forged Check.

W. J. Tremlett was sued in Justice Ryan' for $236.39. Tremlett cashed a draft for a man named Bergien who owed him a heavy board bill. Bergian at the time was in the employ of the Eiret Roofing Co., and among other documents he stole from his employers, according to the allegations, a draft, the indorsement on which he was accused of forging. Bergien, it is alleged, is now in the Penitentiary, and the bank is trying to hold Tremiett on his indorsement. The defense was that the draft was cashed in good faith, and that the bank cashier had, said it was all right. The Justice took the case under advisement.

The Board of Public Improvements held an important meeting this morning with acting President McMath in the chair. The plant or the six settling basins to be constru at the new low-service station at Chain of Rocks were submitted by Water Commissioner Holman and approved by the board, and an ordinance was also pre-pared and sent to the Assembly appropriat-ing $750,000 for this work. The estimate of the total cost is greatly in excess of this amoun and other appropriations will accordingly have to be made before the work is com propriation is passed the contracts will be let

The plans of the St. Louis Automatic Refrigerator Co. for its pipe line connecting "its works at Second and Wainut streets with "he Southern Hotel were approved. This secured a permit Mayor Noonan several weeks ago, authorizing it to lay the pipes pending the passage of an ordinance. A bond was given to save the city from damages that might result. The company proposes to run cold air through pipes in the summer season for lowering the temperature in theaters, churches and business houses.

Why Shackles Are Used.

Harbor Commissioner Murphy who is also he board takes exception to the statement in that portion of the report of the Charity Commissioners which reflects to some extent on the management of that institution. Speaking of the report to-day he said:
"In the excellent report made by the Commissioners there are one or two teems regarding the management of the Work-house that I think need explanation. The first is that relating to the infirmary and hospital quarters. The Building Committee of the Board of Public Improvements, of which Commissioner Klemm is chairman, recommended nearly a year ago that the sum of $5,500 be appropriated for the extension of the male quarters some sixty feet and in the proposed plan it was intended to establish the infirmary on the west corner of the extension. The Municipal Assembly falled to allow the amount necessary for the intervence of the extension. in that portion of the report of the Charity tablish the infirmary on the week corner or the extension. The Municipal Assembly failed to allow the amount necessary for the improvement and the plans are still in the hands of the building committee. The other matter, regarding the placing of shackles or prisoners, is one very difficult to regulate. To dispense with their use would result in: large loss annually to the city through the inprisoners, is one very difficult to regulate. To dispense with their use would result in a large loss annually to the city through the inability of the superintendent to use the prisoners for grading purposes on the sircets. The practice now is to send about fifty men out each morning under the care of a foreman and five gnards. Fifteen carts and mules are used with this number of men; sometimes the haul is several hundred yards from the excavation, and a guard is sent with the carts when they transport the dire from one place to another. It would take ten guards to do the work now performed by five in each gang. Then again in the quarry an average of 200 convects are employed daily and five guards are assigned to the duty of preventing their escape. It would be necessary to increase this number to at least twelve without therestraining influence of the shackles. It would cost the city in salaries for guards alone fully $6,000 per annum additional. The discipline of the institution could not possibly be maintained without the use of the shackles. Many of the convicts are State prisoners and should be in the Penitentiary. The Superintendent and the Board of Public Improvements use their discretion in placing shackles on prisoners. Many of those in the institution are permitted to go without them. Those sent down for minor offenses and who are not vicious, but simply unfortunate, are not shackled. The burglars, theves, thug, wife beaters for minor offenses and who are not vicious, but simply unfortunate, are not shackled. The burglars, thieves, thugs, wife beaters and others of this class are shackled, but no bail is used even on the most unruly. A man was sent down a few days ago on a year's sentence for assaulting a child, an offense that in some States carries with it the death penalty. If I had my way I would put a ball and chain around his neck as well as around his ankles."

The Public Lighting Committee of the Board of Public Improvements met this morning and gave some attention to a grievance presented by the Municipal Electric Lighting Co sented by the Municipal Electric Lighting CC Under the vouchers recently given the company on its contracts the twenty or mor lights on the City Hospital grounds and the Mater-works reservation were classe as public building lights for which the company receives but $51 at year, while $74.95 allowed for street lights, and the company representative argued that the lights on the grounds were not under roofs and therefore and the received for the considered building lights. The grounds were not under roofs and therefore could not be considered building lights. The committee will request the matter. The committee will request the company to make a change in its present schedule for turning the lights on and off. At present the currents are turned in the wires forty-five minutes after sunset and discontinuad thirt initutes between sunrise. The committee favors turning the light on thirty minutes after sunset and off at forty-five minutes before sunrise.

house was well filled. Frequent applause was given and every one seemed to enjoy the per-given and every one seemed to enjoy the performance.

As an amateur actress making her debut nothing but the kindest words can be said of Mrs. Hinchcliffe. In a debutante is not expected all the finished grace of movement, freedom of gesture, correctness of enunciation and modulation of voice which marks the professional of long experience; consequently criticism should be made with these things in view. Mrs. Hinch-cliffe chose a play which very few actresses of reputation would dere to select with any hope of making the role of Marianna as success. The part is a difficult one and the best to be expected of an amateur would be an effort to portray it with the necessary forvency and power.

Mrs. Hinchcliffe has much to learn before she will be able to acceptably produce. The Wife' for a critical sudience. Because of a lack of experience in speaking in a large house Mrs. Hinchcliffe seldom delivered her lines in a voice which could be heard beyond the parqueste. Her gestures were rather unfinished and sometimes accidedly inappropriate, while her boses were too studied to be natural and graceful. A studied pose must be made natural to be pleasing.

The costume worn by Marianna in the first two acts, was not an artistic one, but those worn in the other acts were very striking and appropriate.

worn in the other acts were very striking and appropriate.

The general impression made by Mrs. Hinchelife on the stage, is pleasing. Her make-uplwas somewhat unfinished, to be sure, but through it her striking and peculiar beauty appeared with effect. She has a commanding stage presence, natural grace and evinced enough talent to leave the opinion that if she persists in her efforts to become a star some day she will be heard from as an actress of renown, but it will necessarily require a large renown, but it will necessarily require a large amount of actual experience, hard work and indomitable energy.

John W. Norton was well received by the addince when he appeared as Julian St. Pierre. W. Beaumont Smith and Wm. G. Beach deserve special praise for the work done by them, their acting not being excelled by that of any others in the cast. Miss benour was excellent as Fioribel.

The difference in the price of freight between the raw and manufactured material is so isrge that the Colorado people may lock for fair profits. fair, which we have every hope that he will consent to do. A number of other eminent men will also be invited, but I am not prepared to give their names, as the list has not yet been fully determined upon."

"What is the industrial condition of Texas at the present time?"

"Never in its history has it been so prosperous, During the past decade the State has been increasing very rapidly in population, but the growth within the past three years has been something phenomenal. It is not confined to the cities, as was previously the case, but extends all over the agricultural and grazing districts. The crops for this year have been the best known. Grain of all kinds has been excellent, but the great advance has been in the cotton crop. In many of the cotton States the crop was by no means good, but in Texas it was the best ever known. Conservative estimates place its value at $90,000,000, over $20,000,000 above that of previous years. "OUR TOTAL AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS will this year exceed $150,000,000. As to population, when the new apportionment is made we expect to increase from ten to seventeen or eighteen Congressmen. I believe that Texas will show the largest proportional increase of any State in the Union. For a time Kansas cutatripped us, but in my opinion the last few years have more than made this up. A remarkable change may be looked for in the wheat beit within a short time." Gov. Ross went on to say. "We used to think that there was only a comparatively small area in the central part of the State, including about twenty-six counties, in which wheat could be profitably raised. Except during phenomenal years we could not raise enough wheat for our own consumption, and the mills had to buy much of their grain in the North. Recent developments, however, have proved that the Pan Handle, which until a short time age was little better than a wilderness, over which a few cattle troamed, is the best in the country. There are forty counties which will be added to the wheat belt."

"What will you do with the cattle that will be driven out?"

"I am glad you asked that question, as it gives me an opportunity of expiaining in a clear manner, just what Texas is capable of. We can take care of every head of cattle in our borders, and have plenty of room bo spare. Very few people, even natives of Texas, realize the size of that State. It is easy to say that it contains 274, 356 square miles, but not many appreciate what this means. I know that I did not until recently. We have a larger area than the six New England States, New York, New Jersey, Deleware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Virginia combined. With this area there is no question of not having enough room for everything."

"HE POLITICAL STUATION."

"Is the large emigration changing the political aspect of the State at all?"

"Strange to say, not in the least. We have immigrants from all parts of the country, but whatever theirs former affliations, all seem soon to become Democrats. I don't know what it is, there must be something in the climate that does it, for Republicans are in no way at a disadvantage, either commercially or socially. The Mayor of Austin, the capital of the State, is a Republican. In closing I may mention that a short time ago the first ship load of corn was sent from Gaiveston to Europe. Terms has the friendliest feeling for St. Louis, this city being the natural base of supplies for a large portion of the State, and our prosperity must react upon this city."

During the day the visitors drove about the city and through the parks. They leave on the evening train for New York.

The machine politicians cannot, it seems, remember the lessons they have learned in past years. Machine nominations are not popular, as was demonstrated in the treatment on the Democrats by the ward bosses, but wholly disregarding the fact, Chairman Mc-Fali's committee put itself on record as favoring such methods.

The members of the Republican City Committee began gathering at Central Turner Hall shortly after 40'clock yesterday afternoon and about thirty minutes later all the wards were represented, a few, however, by proxies. The friends of Messrs. Joyce, Mc-Math, and Von Fraben wereon hand early and worked like beavers among the members to secure their support. The only candidate present was Mr. Von Fraben. The crowd did not like this and seme very plain things were said concerning the committee by those who waited in the salcon down-stairs for the adjournment. The idea of selecting a candidate for the Republican voters in such a matter was freely denounced.

When the committee went upstairs it was the understanding that Joyce had a majority of the committee and that the nomination would be made at once, without the formality of calling a convention. When the committee got started Sergeant-at-Arms R. E. Lee took a position at the door to prevent any inquisitive person from getting within hearing range of what was going on inside. Whenever anybody climbed the stairway Lee met him before he reached the door to tell him that the meeting was of an executive character.

to hear—that Joyce had captured the nomination.
The tongues of the committeemen began to wag when they came down stairs and they told a big part of what had occurred in the meeting. There was a wrangle over the proposition to hold a convention, but the Pohlmanites carried their point, and proceeded then and there to make the nomination. Sheriff Pohlman was there himself, and likewise a number of his deputies who hold seats in the committee. They were for Joyce and having a majority they nominated him. There were two ballots taken before the nomination was made, but if the Joyce men were in a hurry they could have nominated their choice without holding the second. Two were taken to distribute complimentary votes among the candidates and to lessen the suspicion that the programme was a didates and to lessen the suspender that the programme was a CUT AND DRIED AFFAIR.

On the first ballot the vote, as Secretary Emith announced it, stood, Joyce, 10; Von Fraben, 8; George Bain 6 and McMath 4. The second and decisive vote was Joyce, 19; Von Fraben, 5; Bain, 2, and McMath, 2. Secretary Smith did not say there was any objection to the proposition to make the nomination unanimous, but a report of that kind grew out of some of the remarks dropped by the committeemen.

Sheriff Pohlman expressed himself as well pleased with the result of the meeting. Joyce, he said in reply to all inquiries, would make quiries, would make A VERY STRONG RACE,

no matter who the Democrate would select.
Chairman McFall had nothing to sayfurther than that he had voted for George Bain on both ballots.
The Executive Committee will meet Monday afternoon at Turner Hall to complete the arrangements for placing the tickets in all the precincts of the city. As there is but one name to go on the tickets the expense of getting out the ballots will be comparatively light. No arrangements have as yet been name to go on the the will be comparatively ting out the ballots will be comparatively light. No arrangements have as yet been made for a ratification meeting.

McMath on the Committee's Action,

Sewer Commissioner McMath entered his office this morning smiling in a manner that indicated that he was not cast down to any great extent over the failure of the Republi great extent over the failure of the Republican City Committee to give him the nomination for President of the Board of Public Improvements. To a POST-DISPACH reporter he said the action of the committee was only a fulfillment of his expectations. When I learned that the Central Committee intended to take the nominating power out of the hands of the Republican voters at large, I became satisfied that the committee would do precisely what it has done. I do not seem the voters at large, I became satisfied that the committee would do precisely what it has done. I do not accept the action of the committee as binding, as it is the unquestionable right of the voters to make these nominations through their delegates in open conventions, when all the competitors will be given some show. The party, I take it, has no nominee, inasmuch as the nomination of the committee was made in an irregular manner and contrary to the wishes of the party! I can only say I am not disappointed in the less, as I expected that the committee would pursue such a course."

was expressed by many of Mr. McMath's supporters that the Filley-Pohlman-McFall-Smith combination made the nomination in their own peculiar way to administer a slap at the national Administration for ignoring the big chief of the hoodinm faction. A Republican of this way of thinking said this morning that whether Joyce was elected or defeated it would give the anti-Silks a chance to celebrate. "If Joyce is elected," he said, "they can cry, "We are the Republican party of St. Louis," and if he is defeated they can charge it up to the administration by making the claim that the appointments made for this city disgusted the workers and destroyed their zeal for the good of the party."

The Democratic Outlook.

Mass meetings will be held in all the wards in the city this evening for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Democratic Conven-tion which will meet at 10 o'clock to-morrow tion which will meet at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning at Uhrig's Cave Hall to nominate a candidate for President of the Board of Public Improvements. There will be four names presented to the convention and the quarteste calculate to-day on having their friends in the hall to urge their interests. Street Commissioner Burnet has made an energetic canvass and is unquestionably a strong candidate. Mr. Fleiding Mansfeld likewise has a becking that will play a big part in the conventions. R. R. Sonthard and D. E. Condon, the other candidates, are still actively at work, and it is reported to-day that the friends of Building Commissioner Furlong will proceed his name to the convention.

It is the impression at the City Hall to-day that furnet will receive the solid support of the administration, as in the event of his NOMIMATION AND ELECTION.

at Jefferson and Clark avenues, at which arrangements were made to run Burnet delegations in every ward. The delegations selected at the mass meetings will be seated in the convention to-morrow morning, providing, of course, that there are no contests. Chairman Carlisle to-day expressed the opinion that the convention would be entirely free from discord and aerimony and he said that the party would have to make a good nomination and that it would not do for the Democrats to underestimate Joyce's running qualities. With a view to opening up the short campaign with a spurt of enthusiasm, he will wait on Gov. Seay of Alabama and ex-Gov. Pattison of Pennsylvania, who are in the city attending the conference of the Southern M. E. Church, this afternoon and extend them an invitation to address the convention on national issues. It is hoped that they will accept.

It is not only important that the successful pupils with knowledge and that she should develop and strengthen their moral characters, but it is also important that she should teach them the laws of economy. Extravagreatest curses of our day. Thousands of our young people grow up and make life a burden because they have never learned the value of money. DISCUSSED BY HOMEOPATHISTS.

Indiana Doctors Favor Abandoning the Practice of Vaccination.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 18 .- The subject o vaccination was discussed at great length by the homeopathists at their meeting yesterday, the subject being introduced by Dr. Baker of Terre Haute. Dr. Baker maintained that there were as many evil as good results from vaccination and he did not know but what it would be wise to abandon the practice altogether. Many of the physicians concurred in Dr. Baker's opinions. Dr. S. W. Sawyer of Kokomo, said he had seen cancers that unmistakably came from vaccination. The doctor said he had made a careful study of the subject and had discovered that the death rate was larger where vaccination was resort. rate was larger where vaccination was resorted to than where it was not. The death rate from smail-pox, he said, was larger now than ever before, notwithstanding the general resort to vaccination.

From advices received by the Executive Committee it is calculated that in the neighborhood of forty distinct and separate industries of the county will be represented. Their representation is being arranged for on such a scale that for each industry a number of floats will be required. The whole number of floats will reach into the hundreds. In some instances as many floats will be brought out to represent a single industry as will occupy a space in the procession of from three to five squares. Besides these there will be numerous floats representing lesser indus-tries, patriotic sentiments, etc. Belleville will furnish the majority of floats. The firms will be an exceptionally interesting one, owing to the fact that few counties have such remarkable histories as St. Clair. The county was established when Illinois was very sparsely settled and its original territory was very extensive. As the country built up St. Clair formed the birthplace of several counties, each of which has now a distinct individuality, but enough of the original territory remains to make St. Clair as large as well as a wealthy county. The original settlers were mostly French, but large colonies of Germans have been established from time to time and Teutonic architecture, customs and language are all quite common. Some very interesting facts and figures will be quoted dealing with the discovery of coal and the building up of the mining industry as well as the growth of some of the best known cities.

Judge Drummond was a man rarely qualified to fill the high juddical position which he held so long and was everywhere recognized as one of the ablest of contemporary jurists. A BOY FATALLY SHOT BY A COMPANION WHILE HUNTING.

Laying Out New Additions on the East Side of the Eiver-Mayor Raney Declares To-Morrow a Municipal Holiday-Excursions To Be Given in the Near Future-

Late yesterday afternoon a 9-year-old son of Fred Lieber of 552 Collinsville avenue was shot in the back by Henry Kramer, aged 15 years, and dangerously wounded. The shooting, which is claimed to have been accidental, occurred at a slaughter-house in New Brighton owned by the injured boy's father. Kramer and several companions were walking about near the place shooting at birds, as they claim, with a small target rifle, and did not see young Lieber until he was shot. Kramer shot in the direction of the slaughter-house at a bird, and it is supposed that the ball went through a crack in the walls, as Lieber, who was inside, was struck by it. The ball entered his body beneath the left shoulder and lodged in the breast above the heart. The wound inflicted is probably fatal. Three physicians who are attending the boy say he will die, although he is alive to-day. Kramer has been arrested and is now locked up at Police Headquarters awaiting the result of Lieber's injuries. A verdict was announced to-day in the case tried yesterday in the City Court in which

The mystery of little Minnie Delchman's disappearance from Believille is no nearer solution to-day than it was yesterday. No clew

A COWARDLY BRUTE'S CRIME. William Moeller Fires a Load of Shot Into His Wife's Back.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 16.—Early this morning Wm. Moeller, standing not more than six feet from his wife, discharged a load of shot into her back. The woman is in critical condition. Moeller had been drinking heavily for several days, and this morning about 6:30 o'clock became violent and secured possession of a shotgun which was loaded. His wife, who on many previous occasions had been brutally attacked by him, became alarmed and attempted to leave the house. Moelier observed this and remarked: "No, you don't; you can't slip through my fingers this time." The woman sprang through the door, followed by her husband, who, standing on the stops of his residence, fired directly at her. She reeled for a moment, then recovered herself and snoceeded in reaching the house of a neighbor. Moelier reloaded his gun and, after additionally arming himself with a large dirk, locked himself in his room and swore he would kill the first man who approached him. It was nearly an hour before the police succeeded in arresting him. While officers attracted his attention to a front door, Chief of Police Meade climbed through a rear entrance and seized Moeller, who still haid the gun and dirk. The chief sustained several slight cuts on the hand and arms. secured possession of a shotgun which was

CLEVELAND, O., May 16 .- The yard switch nen employed in the Valley;Railway yards, to the number of over sixty, quit work Wednes day night and not a freight train left the city day night and not a freight train left the city on that road until after noon yesterday. The Switchmen's Brotherhood agreed at its last meeting upon a demand for an increase and gave the various companies until June 15 to accept or reject the offer. It appears that the Valley gained an impression that May 15 instead of June 15 was the date set for an answer. Learning that a mistake had been made in the date, the switchmen at a meeting yesterday afternoon resolved to resume work.

ASSESSING TERMINALS.

MEETING OF THE STATE BOARD OF EQUAL-IZATION IN THE CITY TO-DAY.

Inspection of the Railroad Properties in St Louis-Composition of the Board-How Its Work Is Accomplished-A Short Ses Belt Lines.

The State Board of Equalization met in the city to-day. The board is at work assessing the railroads of the State for the purpose of taxation. For nearly two weeks it has been sitting at Jefferson City taking the testimony of officials and others interested in the taxations of the railroads of the State. Nearly all the tax commissioners of the railroads have been heard, and now the board has come to St. Louis to look over the terminals of lines here with a view to their taxation.

The board is composed of the Governor, Auditor Seibert, Attorney-General Wood, Secretary of State Lesueur and Treasurer Stephens The Governor is president and Auditor Seiber

THE BOARD MET THIS MORNING few minutes with President of the St. Louis Board of Assessors John J. O'Brien in the Court House and then adjourned until lo'clock. It lunched at Faust's by appointment and was then driven to the Union Depot where an engine and car were placed at its disposal by Samuel L. Highleyman, tax commissioner of the Missouri Pacific Railway.

The board was carried all about the city and inspected the property owned by the railroad companies and used by them for railroad purposes. Mr. O'Brien accompanied them, he being much interested in the board's work. The property belonging to the railroad companies is assessable in part by the city and in part by the State. All property used exclusively for railroad is assessable by the State Board of Equalization, while real estate not used for railroad is assessable by the city. The separation of these classes sometimes leads to conflict botween the city board and the State ment and was then driven to the Union Depot flict between the city board and the Stat

THE ROADS OWNING TERMINAL FACILITIES in St. Louis are the Missouri Pacific, the Terminal Association, the Wabash Railway and the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern. The Chicago, Burlington & Quince Railway owns a great deal of property for terminal facilities, but has not applied it to that use as yet, so that such property is assessable as real estate by the city and the State board as yet, so that such property is assessable as real estate by the city and the State board has nothing to do with it. The Merchants' Bridge is acquiring terminal facilities, but as they did not own them prior to last June they are not assessable by the State board.

When the board has completed its survey of the terminal property that is taxable, and has finished the taking of testimony in regard to all railroad property in the State, it will fix the total valuation of the railroads of the State for taxing purposes, figuring the value of terminal facilities into the value of railroad companies owning them. These various totals will be divided by the number of miles of road owned by the separate companies, and the result will be of the roads. The assessments are not made on each mile of road and terminal facilities separately, but the assessment of each mile is the average of the whole value of the railway.

When the assessment is made it will be sub-the average of the whole value of the ran-way.

When the assessment is made it will be sub-ject to revision by the board sitting in Jeffer-son City, a proceeding always urged by the railway companies. None of the members of the board could this morning give any in-formation as to whether the assessments would be increased or not. The railroad representatives had been telling a very dark story, and they had not heard much of the other side.

ST. LOUIS MARKETS.

Wheat—The market was solid as a rock this foremoon. Bulls had regained confidence and were inclued to force the race and bears were shoky, and inclined to run—the other way. Most o the news was of a strengthening nature. Frosts in Kansas and reports of damage to the crops therefrom, files and chess in Illinois and some heartrending tales from the Northwest were circulating and adding to the apprehension already felt regarding the crop prospects. News from abroad were of fine crop conditions and quiet markets, though prices were firm. Receipts here were larger and stock decreasing slowly. Expet clearances from three ports were 12.400 pkgs flour and 25,000 bu wheat. The opening was strong at 88tgc for July and from that it went up to 91c, with only occasional setbacks and though of not over Igo, numerous reports of damage by frost in Kansas added to the excitement and kept buil steam up. 4th top was 91c against which the maket bumped once and did not over the control of the advance (some of the race to bury sculling the markets one of the former of the salver with the salver with the salver. F. Einstman & Co., Meredosia, Ill., writes the Lewis-Sharpe Commission Co. The bears now draw about their only comfort from the fact that in 1888, with weather and crop conditions about the same as the present and the price at this time about the same, the price in July was down in the seventies and the crop condition was then 76.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Wheat—To-day's market has settled the falsity of the idea that whoat is being settled the falsity of the idea that whoat is being being the falsity of the idea that whoat is being been seen. With a bantifus at a first of the false of the false of the growing trops of the growth of the growing trops of the growing trops of the growing trop, wheat will readily sell at $1 regardless of export or any factor outside of our home consumption. The speculative public are trading on this theory and it is useless to fight against them. News was very scarce in the market, which seemed to be worked on the whim of the average scaiper.

Corn has been strong all day, with large buying for New York and St. Louis account. Pork weak and lower. Lard dull. W. G. MCCORMICK & CO. Special to John P. Grier:

CHICAGO, May 18.—The tone of the wheat market is one of great strength. Winter wheat reports come worse daily. This State now is estimated at 40 per cent of an average crop. Indiana men say they won't be any better. The market is in a state of nervous excitement. On all advances the trading is heavy and it is a puzzle to see or ascertain where the wheat is absorbed. The believers in $1 for July have largely increased; in fact, the market is stronger this atternoon than it has been at any time since it passed 64c. No exports, but that and all elies is lost sight of. CAPTURED BY THE STANDARD. The Chicago Gas Trust Under the Control of

CHICAGO, Ill., May 16 .- Whether true or not, it is generally understood that the Chicago Gas Trust has passed under the control of the Standard Oil Co. or its tool, the United Gas & Improvement Co., and that the promoters of the trust were dumped in the deal. The story told is the trust quarreled with the story told is the trust quarreled with the Standard regarding the price of crude petroleum, which is the chief material used in the manufucture of gas, and refused to purchase further of the Standard. The latter's representatives, to regain the customer, bought all the trust stock on the market from 48% to 66, and have now got the control.

When seen the officers of the trust stock pool knew nothing of the deal, and were much concerned about the runors. It is said big holders of trust stock have been selling short at 50. The stock is now 65, and indications are it will go higher. If the stories are true the Standard has struck it rich. It has control of a large natural gas field within piping distance, and has a pipe line from ollic oil fields to South Chicago, where it is building a refinery.

The Valuable Papers Destroyed by Miser Hilton Still Good.

FRANKLIN, Ky., May 16.-Word has been reached from Washington that the partially charred bonds which Miser Hilton attempted to burn on his death, will be paid. They are worth, with interest, $5,000. It was found $168,000 worth had been stolen, but those left proved all were worth about their face value.

Its object is to thoroughly realize one of the most cherished ideas of the framers of the Amercan constitution—the absolute separation of tean constitution—the absolute separation of churches and State, thereby to afford better protection to the public school system. The officers of the league are John Jay, President; James M. King, General Secretary, and its headquarters, rooms 43 and 44. No. 140 Nassau street. The Board of Managers is composed of the following named gentlemen: John Jay, George S. Baker, Peter Donald, Clinton B Fisk, Warner Van Norden, John D. Slayback Wm. H. Parson, Peter Welch, A. J. D. Wedermeyer, James M. King, James McKeen, H. H. Boyesen, Churchill H. Cutting, James M. Montgomery, Wm. Fellow, D. Morgan, Chas. E. Whitehead, Alexander E. Orr, Manuel A. Kursheedt and F. P. Bellamy. The first and most important step to be taken by the league is the presentation to Congress of this pro-posed sixteenth amendment to the National Constitution, which has been passed upon by the Law Committee, Messrs. Wm. Allen Butler Dorman B. Eaton, Cephas Brainerd, Stephe

A. Walker and Henry E. Howland:

No State shall pass any law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercishment, or use the property or credit of any mone raised by taxation, or authorize either to be used for purpose of founding, maintaining or adding bappropriation, payment for services, expenses of therwise any church, religious denomination or riligious society or any institution, society or under taking which is wholly or in part under sectarian of ecclesiastical control.

taking which is wholly or in part under sectarian or ecclesiastical control.

LEGISLATIVE WORK.

The legislative work of the League will not be accomplished until two-thirds of the States have passed acts in accordance with the spirit of this amendment, when it will become mandatory with the others. When this complete separation of the interests of State Government and religious bodies has taxen place, the League's work will be to develop to the extent of its capacity all American institutions of learning, to promote public instruction in harmony with such institutions, and to prevent all sectarian or denominational appropriation of public funds. To this end it is proposed to organize leagues in different communities and States throughout the country, and to extensively publish papers by the ablest writers on distinctively American institutions. In one of the documents which the league is sending to people likely to be interested in such a movement, some details of its projects are given.

tions. In one of the documents which the league is sending to people likely to be interested in such a movement, some details of its projects are given.

"We want no toreign school with doctrines, ideas and methods at variance with our constitutional principles, disturbing instead of conserving the national harmony, and controlled by those who seek, by perverting the infant mind of America, to use the American suffrage for the overthrow of American institutions. We insist on careful instruction in the fundamental principles of American law, and the rigid exclusion of sectarian or denominational teaching and attempts to proselytize so that the citizens of the different faiths may secure for their children, without fear of interference with their religious freedom, the unrivalled advantages of the public schools. It would seem hardly necessary to add that, in seeking to protect American institutions, it is not proposed to overlook the dangers that threaten them from the perversion of constitutional Government by machine politics, by bribery, electoral abuses, fraudulent naturalization and any other form of political corruption. Nor are we unmindful of the perlis of an unrestricted immigration, which permits foreign governments, aided by mercenary shippers, to transfer to our shores the dregs of the populations representing the lowest forms of illiteracy, beggary and crime, imposing new burdens on our laboring classes and serving unscrupulous politicians for the most unworthy purposes."

From the offices of the League pamphlets setting forth the details of its project are being sent to 10,000 of the leading jurists, legislators, editors, clergymen and educators of the different States, with requests for their support and expressions of opinion. By this means the officers of the League are confident of appearing before Congress, at the opening of the next-session, with such powerful support and expressions of opinion. By this means the officers of the League are confident to make it a part of the Constitution. The only a national provision can set the question

sectarian appropriation of public moneys, but only a national provision can set the question at rest and prohibit the course in vogue in other States, which operates with much detriment to the public schools. It is called to the minds of those appealed to, that a similar amendment preposed by President Grant was introduced by James G. Blaine in the House of Representatives December 14, 1875, approved by a vote of 180 yeas to 7 nays, but lost in the Senate for lack of a two-thirds majority, the vote being 28 to 18. Both the Democratic and Republican parties have given pledges to the American people on this subject.

"Leaders in every religion and religious denomination in the country," said Mr. King yesterday, "have sent assurance of their hearty co-operation. It might be supposed that some denominations that are now receiving aid from State appropriations would be opposed to the movement, but that is not a fact. The project is too intensely American and too entirely piedged to the development of all institutions to permit any such narrow and unfraternal view of it. It will work institutions and will preserve the independence of both."

THE WALLACE ROBBERY.

YOUNG BOB FORCED TO COMMIT THE CRIME BY LOWITZ-

The Latter a Race Tout and Bogus Book maker—Young Wallace Completely in the Power of His Friend—Lewitz' Un-savory Career—Sadie Adams' Connection With the Case—Gone to Cuba.

y Telegraph to the Post-Disparch. NEW York, May 16.—All doubt that your Wallace and not Leslie E. MacLeod was the thief who rified Editor John H. Wal-lace's safe deposit box of $350,000 in stocks and bonds, after having stolen $18,000 in cash was, according to the Herald of to-day, re moved yesterday when MacLeod was dis-charged in the Tombs Police Court for lack of evidence to show that he had been near the safe deposit vault recently. From what was found out yesterday about I. B. Lowitz, alias J. D. Lewis, who accompanied young Wallace in his flight to Cuba on the steamer Saratoga, it became still more evident that Lo-witz planned the robbery and persuaded, if he did not intimidate, the lad to commit it, Last year, continues the Herald, he was arrested in Brooklyn charged with swindacquitted, but the trial brought out very iny damaging facts against him. Ignatius B. Lowitz is about 80 years old. He is a son of John B. Lowitz, a well known importer of dress trimmings in Spring street, this city, who died several years ago. Young Lowitz was administrator of the estate, said to have been worth $100,000 or more. He administered it mostly into the hands of A Bold System of Swindling Uncarthed at gamblers. He was a frequenter of the race last summer, although he spent money so freely at times when it was known he had lost heavily on the races that some suspicions sed. In June, 1889, he was accused mere aroused. In June, 1889, he was accused by Herbert W. Clapp of Claup Bros., grocers at No. 579 Futton street, Brooklyn, of swindling him out of $8,795 by worthless checks. S. B. Jones, a retired dry goods merchant of Brooklyn, also claimed to have been swindled out of $3,900 in cash and nearly $8,000 in goods by Lowitz. Lowitz was then living in a fashionable boarding house in Brooklyn. He was arrested and held in ball to answer Mr. Clapp's charge. Lowitz was then living in a fashionable boarding house in Brooklyn. He was arrested and held in ball to answer Mr. Clapp's charge. Lowitz was then living in a fashionable boarding house in Brooklyn. He was arrested and held in ball to answer Mr. Clapp's charge. Lowitz was then living in a fashionable boarding house in Brooklyn. He was arrested and held in ball to answer Mr. Clapp's charge brooklyn was described in the habit of exchanging checks, and Clapp in the habit of exchanging checks, and Clapp in the laptic was Clapp's share of their mutual losses. One Grand-jury falled to indict Lowitz, but another indicted him for grand larceny. About the same time he was lay L. Block, diamond dealers of Maiden lane, on a note for $2,400 indorsed by Clapp. Clapp said he had never seen the note, but a jury rendered judgment against him. His next exploit was at a fashionable hotel in Baylon. Said belonged to him. He was short of funds one days later a man appeared and claimed for grand darceny on Clapp's charge before Judge Cullen in the Brooklyn. Courf of Oyer and Terminer on February 2 of this year. He told the sound was accupited. Not reasoned and are accounted to the country of the same and the right and the supplementary proceedings and leading the property metabolic the street of the small booking concern called "Windom & Co." Lowitz is the other of the money stelen from Education of the burglars they are making libration of the burglars they a nership. Lowitz, it is thought, got young Bob to "back" bogus "books," that is, to put up money which was declared lost by Lowitz, who pocketed it himself. His fortunes at any rate suddenly improved after he and young Wallace became intimate. Lowitz moved to a finely furnished flat uptown in this city. There is some mysterv as to exactly how he obtained such a complete hold on the young man. At first Lowitz is said to have been very friendly, making presents to "Bob" and inviting him to the flat. Afterward Lowitz domineered over him and ordered him about like a slave. The young woman described yesterday as Wallace's sweetheart, who saw him and Lowitz off on the Saratoga, is one of those who noticed Lowitz' sinister power over Bob. She upbraided Bob for submitting to Lowitz, but he seemed cowed. There are some peculiar features about the gistions between young Wallace and this young woman and the police think she may know more than she has told. Her name is Sadle Adams. She lives in Ninth avenue, not far from where Bob boarded in West Twenty-second street. They became acquainted a year or more ago at the Fitty-first Street Presbyterian Church, where Bob was President of the Sunday-school class. Sadle is a plump, dark-eyed girl of 18, with a comely but not second street. They became acquainted a year or more ago at the Fifty-first Street Presbyterian Church, where Bob was President of the Sunday-school class. Sadie is a plump, dark-eyed girl of 18, with a comely but not particularly handsome face. Her parents are rospectable people in moderate circumstances. When Bob became acquainted with Badie she was a saleswoman in a Ninth avenue store. A few weeks ago she left the store and has not worked since. Her friends have noticed that she has worn more stylish looking and apparently more expensive ciothing lately. She is still in a nervous condition, and professes to have told all she knows ABOUT HER LOVER'S CRIME.

The Rev. Henry Harshaw, pastor of the Fifty-first Street Presbyterian Church, expresses the utmost surprise at Wallace's conduct. He says Robert was a valuable worker in the Sunday-school class and the Christian Endeavor Society of the church and apparently an earnest Christian. Of his relations to Sadie Adams, Mr. Harshaw knew simply that they often attended service together. The only thing that Mr. Harshaw had noticed about Robert was that he had not been so assiduous in his Sunday-school duties of late. All the young people of the church are much agitated, as Robert was very popular. Leslie MacLeod was arraigned in the Tombs Police Court for the fourth time yesterday. Editor Wallace was present. John Van Orden and Wm. Dublin, a negro, employes of the Bankers' Sate Deposit Co., failed to identify MicLeod as the man who had visited the vauit last week and Justice Gorman promptly discherged him. Assistant District Attorney Lindsay yesterday sent a telegram to Secretary of State Blaine at Mr. Wallace's request, asking that the sid of the Spanish authorities be invoked to bring about the return of Lowitz and young Wallace. Mr. Lindsay tainks the Spanish authorities will consent, as since the treaty made with Span after 'Boss' Tweed's return from that country invoen as well as forgery is an extraditable offense.

Voters' Letter-Box.

I hear a good deal of the spirited contest now going on for the most popular lady teacher of St. Louis. It carries me backs score of years to the great fire here when so many teachers were thrown out of employment. Knowing the high reputation of your schools I took a trip to St. Louis where I spent several days in visiting the different schools. One room I distinctly remember and by reference to my journal, find it was Webster School, the room them being taught by Mrs. Emeretta Watson. To say I was delighted, does not express it. The room was simply perfect in every particular. I find by your paper that she is still in the harness. I would like to boil a vote for her. for I am sure she has served you long and fathfully.

ONE OF THE CRAFT.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Please listen to advice from the "North Pole," asking permission to east his vote for Mrs. Rose Wright Panning in the election of teachers for the European trip this summer. Mrs. Fanning has been one of my best friends for the past twenty-five years, and has been one of St. Louis' most faithful teachers during that time, and therefore is in every way entitled to the prize. Whish everybody could vote for her.

MISS ARCHIE DEAN.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Inclosed find nine guessing cupons, also two ballots for Mrs. Rose Fauning. As she has devoted the best part of her life to the education of the people in this and other States I think she should have the honor of the delightful trip to Europe. Hoping and trusting her many pupils will push her to the front.

MAUDE EICHELBERG.

I would like to know why all the gentlemen on 'Change stand back and not come to the front and cast their voies for their kind friend, Mrs. Rose Wright Fauning, just as well as all the lawyers do for Miss Pritchett. I am not acquainted with any teachers, but my husband and brothers praise Mrs. Fanning so bighly that we would like to see her the leader to the last.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Inclosed please find twenty-eight ballots for Miss Callie A. Friichett of the Shaw, and fourteen guesses of teachers' contest. I see that Miss Pritchett is still ahead, and hope that she will continue so,

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

There were some remarkable changes among the leaders in the teachers'trip-to-Eu rope election to-day. Miss Callie A. Pritchett is still in the front, but is closely presse Mrs. Rose W. Fanning, who had bee ground for some days, having dropped as lo as fifth, has begun to climb again. Yesterday she was fourth. To-day she is in second place, having passed Miss Anna B: Boyd o the Bates and Miss Madge Frederick of the Stoddard to get there, they being very clos to the leader, Miss Pritchett. But Miss Frederick's pupils and friends have not been idle. They have seen that she did not lose her place although Mrs. Fanning passed her. To do this, they have put her shead of Miss Boyd, so that she remains where she was yesterday, in third place. Miss Boyd suffers most, dropping from second place yesterday to fourth place to-day. Numerous other changes have occurred. The voting has been heavy all day and well scattered. Voters do not need the reminder that the of ficial ballot appears next Sunday, and that but two more are due. Then the election will but two more are due. Then two closed. Pupils are again reminded that letters from them in reference to their teachers will be printed on sunday. Write what you think about your teacher and send it at once to this office.

I notice Miss Gertrude Wright, colored teacher, has climbed up several notches. If the colored people of St. Louis, its vicinity and those who are interested in the advancement of their color put their shouldest to the wheel, they would beyond doubt obtain one of the coveted trips to Europe at hlesn, Elvira-Hodgen, inn, Margaret A.—O'Fall yh, Clara C.—Jefferson, en, Margaret—Lyen.

the expense of the Post-Dispatch. If she were elected to go she would do honor to her sex, her color, her postition and the Post-Dispatch. There are many instances where the colored men and women of America have risen above prejudice and by dint of hard study and perseverance made their way to the front. Lock at Wm. Edward Burghardt Dubois, 26 years of age, captured first prize in the Boylston oratorical contest, Harvard Gollege. He is a poor man, but is on the way to fortune. Miss Wright has studied hard and made her mark. Now is the time to give her a lift. I offer this suggestion to the friends of Miss Gertrude Wright: Let the colored pastors of their respective churches use their indisence in persuading their members to exert themselves in her behalf. Let the colored people the mark of the colored people on the colored people of the colored p

THREE IMPORTANT GATHERINGS TO FOL-

-Religious Information. The Southern Methodists who have been in convention—that is to say in conference—for nine days in Centenary Church, are not yet roady to adjourn. After to-morrow no new business can be introduced, but there is enough work in committee to keep the con-ference going for two or three weeks more. If the work can be finished by the lst of June nearly three hundred delegates will be made happy, though they now fear this can not be done. Few conventions occupy so much time in disposing of business, but then this conference must legislate on the accumuated business of four years for a grea

Before the conference is concluded the con vention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Missouri and the con-vention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese of Missouri will have convened, finished work and adjourned, and if the Methodists extend their work into pinth international convention of the Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor.

The Convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Missouri will begin on May 27, in Christ Church Cathedral. One hundred and five parishes and missions will be represented. The fiftieth anniversary of the diocese will be celebrated and the Cathedral will be consecrated with impressive ceremonics. The main question to be discussed will be the division of the diocese, and this will probably be accomplished, the State being separated into two equal divisions, with Kansas City as the headquarters of the western division.

The Christian Endeavor Convention will assemble on June 12 and continue to the 15th. The convention will meet in Music Hall, where postal, telegraph and all other necessary accommodations will be provided. There will be rooms for all committees, and ten churches have been secured for the rennions of State delegations. The convention will be ropened on the afternoon of June 12, when the address of welcome will be heard. At night the President of the United Society of Christian Endeavor will deliver his address and the convention sermon will be preached by Rev. P. S. Henson of Chicago.
